The risk and reward indicator illustrates where the Sub-Fund is positioned in terms of its possible risk and reward. The higher the Sub-Fund's position on this scale, the greater the possible reward, but also the greater the risk of losing money. Even if the Sub-Fund is in the lowest risk class you can lose money as no investments are entirely risk free. Why is this Sub-Fund in this category?

The Sub-Fund has been placed in category 6, which is consistent with a value and growth strategy focused on investments in equity and equity related instruments.

Not all risks affecting the Sub-Fund are adequately captured by the synthetic risk indicator. The following risks may affect the Sub-Fund:

Equity risk - the Sub-Fund will invest primarily its assets in common stocks and other equity securities and therefore is subject to market risk that historically has resulted in greater price volatility than experienced by bonds and other fixed income securities. Liquidity risk could also exist when particular investments become difficult to purchase or sell.

Derivative risk - use of derivatives results in higher chances of loss due to the use of leverage, or borrowing. Derivatives allow investors to earn large returns from small movements in the underlying asset's price. However, investors could lose large amounts if the price of the underlying moves against them significantly.

Operational risk - under specific circumstances the Sub-Fund may be subject to operational risk of loss due to inadequacy or failure of internal procedures and systems, human factor or external events.
